

Legal Action of Wisconsin clients are ordinary people facing a multitude of challenges few of us could handle on our own. Our clients come from every racial, ethnic, and age group, and live in rural, suburban, and urban areas.

We also work with specialized populations, addressing their unique needs, including veterans, seniors, farmworkers, and those near release or recently released from prison address.

Veterans

In partnership with the Center for Veterans' Issues and the US Department of Veterans Affairs' Supportive Services for Veterans Families Program, we help veterans and their families with issues related to housing, benefits, drivers and occupational licenses, consumer law, and child support. We also help veterans with other issues on a case-by-case basis.

Seniors

Our Elder Rights Project serves Wisconsin residents ages 60 and older with civil legal needs and other support services following abuse or victimization from other crimes. Through SeniorLAW, we provide free legal services to Milwaukee County residents ages 60 and older assisting with issues related to benefits, medical assistance and care, housing, and abuse.

Farmworkers

We ensure that migrant, seasonal, and year-round agricultural workers receive the wages they have earned, live and work in a safe environment, are recruited lawfully and fairly, and have access to public benefit programs. We serve clients who live in or travel to Wisconsin for work.

Reentry Legal Services Program

Through referrals from the Wisconsin Department of Corrections (DOC), we work with clients near or recently released from prison and those under probation or parole with the DOC and help them apply for disability, health care, and other public benefits.
